The Center for Creative Arts Presents:

Drawing Families Together: The Art of Healing

The visual language of art and symbolism is an effective tool in expressing grief through a medium not limited by words. The creative process and making of art serves as an emotional outlet that can more fully express the complexity of loss. Drawing Families Together allows us to experience, understand and accept loss through a family oriented program that emphasizes creativity and interaction.

Supporting Kidds has teamed up with the Center for the Creative Arts to host family workshops on Wednesday evenings, September 10, 17, 24 from 6:30-8:30 pm at the CCArts campus in Yorklyn, DE. Contact Stephanie Sklowdowski for more information at ssklowdowski@supportingkidds.org

We are looking for loving long term helpers- mature caring people who are willing to take ownership of our gardens and our ongoing landscape needs. This would mainly involve weeding and making sure our plants get love. If you are interested, please contact Amy Smith at smith@supportingkidds.org
